

Assessing your Mentoring Relationship

---

In order for the mentoring program to be successful, formative assessment must occur on a regular basis. After each session, both the mentor and mentee should achieve certain objectives, and should evaluate to determine if those objectives have been met. Using a rating scale, the evaluation could be completed quickly in order to determine the direction for future sessions.