Welcome Session:
How Can We Help You?
Time: 1:00 – 1:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Special Events Room (6137)
Presenters:
Patricia Steele, Dean of Libraries
Gary White, Associate Dean of Public Services
Eric Bartheld, Director of Libraries Communications
Liaison librarians are your first and best resource for accessing all of the resources and other research products available from the UMD Libraries. Come learn how liaison librarians can help you with your teaching and research, saving you time and effort.

Get the Latest on Data Management and Publishing
Times: 2:00 – 2:45pm
3:00 – 3:45pm
4:00 – 4:45pm
Location: Mathematics Building, Room 1403A
More and more researchers are interested in sharing their data, code, images, and other research products. Many have to comply with requirements from funding agencies or journals, and many want to accelerate research and receive credit for their products. Join us to learn more about these issues and related trends. Librarians from Research Data Services will be available to talk about:
- Strategies for managing and publishing your data
- Data management requirements from NSF, NIH, and other funding agencies
- Ideas for new services and technologies at UMD

Special Collections in the Humanities
Time: 2:00 – 2:45pm
Location: Hornbake North, Room 3210
The University Libraries’ Special Collections offer a number of primary source materials within collections related to the Humanities, most strongly in the areas of University of Maryland, the state of Maryland, Literature and Rare Books, Mass Media and Culture, Labor History, Women’s History and Historic Preservation, as well as other subjects.
Our goal is to help you delve deeper into history. Those attending this session will hear more about our:
- Collection strengths
- Services, specifically for faculty and graduate students
- Tips for locating resources quickly and painlessly
You will also have time to take a look at some of the collections, take tours of the stacks, or spend some one-on-one time talking to the subject experts about the holdings that might be most relevant to you.

Nonprint Media Services:
To See, To Hear, To Understand
Time: 4:00–4:45pm
Location: Hornbake North, Room 0302H
Nonprint Media Services Library (NPMS) is UMD’s primary media-centric library. We collect media for all academic levels and subjects, with special emphasis on subjects for which audiovisual content is considered a primary research source or part of the curriculum. These include U.S. and international public television and journalistic programs, theatrical and independently released documentaries, performance media and the entire realm of world cinema.
The collections contain a variety of formats, including general and special digital access to over 15,000 programs, accessible from computers on the UM campus and most available remotely to UM faculty, staff and students. The discussion will focus on:
- Services
- Collections
- Spaces available for study and instruction

Your Best Request:
6 Tips for Getting What You Need ASAP
Times: 2:00 – 2:45pm
3:00 – 3:45pm
4:00 – 4:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Room 6101
There are several ways you can request items through the University Libraries, and most of these methods have recently undergone, or are currently undergoing, change. This workshop will explain when and how to request items through Interlibrary Loan, Article Express, Offsite Storage, and the University System of Maryland shared catalog. We will also highlight new and upcoming delivery services. Don’t miss our six tips on how to get what you need for your teaching and research as quickly and easily as possible!

Government Information, GIS & Maps

Time: 3:00 – 3:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Room 6107

If you’ve ever suspected that there’s some great government information and data out there that you’re missing, this is the session for you! You’ll learn about the extensive government information and maps collections in McKeldin Library, how they can enrich your research, and how and where to find these resources. We’ll also cover the Libraries’ Geographic Information Systems (GIS) workshops, geospatial data, and online and in-person services.

The Future of Library Collections: Supporting Research and Teaching at the University of Maryland

Time: 3:00 – 3:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Room 2109

New trends in scholarship, teaching and technology present exciting opportunities and challenges to the twenty-first century library. Collections must meet new demands of interdisciplinarity, online education, and engagement with the larger community while still supporting the University’s core research and curricular mission. This workshop will discuss important issues facing our collections:
- Online resources, including e-books and e-journals
- Budgetary support for collections across the curriculum
- Space and facilities for physical collections in all media and formats
- Collaborating with the CIC, USMAI and other consortial partners
- Faculty engagement
- Policies, programs and services supporting access and use of collections in research and teaching

Engineering & Physical Sciences Library Open House

Time: 2:00 – 4:45pm
Location: Engineering & Physical Sciences Library

EPSSL will host an Open House, offering tours, information about library services and collections, and access to online science and engineering resources.

Michelle Smith Performing Arts Library Open House

Time: 2:00 – 4:45pm
Location: Michelle Smith Performing Arts Library

MSPAL will hold an Open House, which will include tours. Librarians, curators, and staff will be available to answer questions and give overviews about our collections, circulation policies, streaming audio and video databases, reserves, and more.

Architecture Library Open House

Time: 2:00 – 4:45pm
Location: Architecture Library

The Architecture Library will host an Open House and serve light refreshments. Librarians and staff will be there to answer questions and demonstrate some of our innovative services such as studio kiosks.

Art Library Open House

Time: 4:00 – 4:45pm
Location: Art Library

The Art Library will host an Open House, offering tours, information about library services and collections, and access to online art resources.

Unique Performing Arts Primary Sources at Maryland

Time: 3:00 – 3:45pm
Location: Piano Room, Michelle Smith Performing Arts Library

The Michelle Smith Performing Arts Library is home to two significant archival repositories: Special Collections in Performing Arts (SCPA) and the International Piano Archives at Maryland (IPAM). Between the two, there are hundreds of collections the curators have cultivated to support new original research by the campus community. In this session, you will not only learn about some of the library’s unique documents, recordings, and objects, but considerable attention will be devoted to interpreting and using these items for scholarly projects, as well as how to discover these materials.

Managing Your Literature from E to Z

Time: 2:00 – 2:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Room 6107

Drowning in citations? This presentation will review and compare the benefits and drawbacks of using EndNote, EndNote Web, RefWorks, Mendeley, Papers, and Zotero for collecting and managing citations retrieved from databases, journals, and web sites.

Measuring Academic Impact

Time: 4:00 – 4:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Room 6107

This presentation will discuss the features and possible use of the Science Citation Index, impact factors, the h-index, Journal Citation Reports, and Google Scholar Metrics for evaluating academic impact.

Terrapin Learning Commons (TLC): A Constellation of Services in a Welcoming Place

Time: 2:00 – 2:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Room 2109

Learn what the TLC can do to support your teaching and research! During this session we will provide an overview of our services for faculty and graduate students, as well as for your undergraduate students. We will announce the TLC workshops that will be available in the spring semester, including those covering bibliographic citation managers and multi-media technology. Find out about resources in the TLC that will help your students prepare for class presentations. We will also spotlight our TLC staff and the specialized equipment that we have to support you and your student’s technology needs for multimedia projects. In addition, we will offer an overview of the other campus services available in the TLC.

Closing Reception

Time: 5:00 – 5:45pm
Location: McKeldin Library, Special Events Room (6137)

Come enjoy refreshments and a chance to interact with colleagues from the Libraries and around campus about what you saw, heard, and learned today.
