

A Conversation with

MARK SAGOFF

SPONSORED BY

April 22
4:30pm

McKeldin Library, Room 6137
Special Events Room

In this updated edition of his seminal work on the foundations of environmentalism, Mark Sagoff argues that “the most important reasons for protecting nature are moral and aesthetic, not economic and instrumental.” One reviewer notes: “Sagoff’s carefully reasoned and wide ranging arguments will infuriate economists, ecologists and elite environmentalists equally, but the book is essential reading for anyone interested in the future of environmentalism.”

